

HUMAN SUBJECTS RESEARCH DATABASE

United States Department of Energy (DOE) provides information to the public on current research involving human subjects through the DOE Protecting Human Subjects Program. This program provides the public and DOE with educational updates & information.

Under Federal Policy for Protection of Human Subjects (10 CFR Part 745) and DOE Orders 1300.3 and 4300.2C, the DOE Office of Energy Research maintains information on all research projects that involve human subjects and that are funded by DOE, conducted in DOE facilities, or performed by DOE personnel.

The DOE Environmental Measurements Laboratory (EML) in collaboration with the Office of Health and Environmental Research within the Office of Energy Research provides the Human Subjects Research Database (HSRD) on the internet.

Services provided by EML:

- ▲ Database Maintenance
- ▲ Internet Access
- ▲ Software Development
- ▲ Quality Assurance/Quality Control
- ▲ Project Assistance

The HSRD, a "user friendly" searchable electronic database, makes this information readily available to the public and interested parties. It may be accessed through the following World Wide Web addresses:

- ▲ The EML home page;
<http://www.eml.doe.gov>
- ▲ The DOE Protecting Human Subjects Program home page;
<http://www.er.doe.gov/production/oher/humsubj/index.html>
- Once in either home page choose DOE Human Research Projects Database to access the databases.
